DETAILED ACTION

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

The following title is suggested: "Laser Beam Machine with Two Workpiece Position Controllers".

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Maruyama et al. in U.S. Patent No. 6,153,853 in view of Japan Patent No. 10-230,393. Mauyama et al. discloses a laser beam machine with a processing scanner (element 82 or 84) that includes a angular pivot shaft (see figure 1). Japan Patent No. 10-230,393 teaches triaxial positioners (see paragraphs 7-11 and figures 1-3) with concentrated centers of rotation. It would have been obvious to adapt Maruyama et al. in view of Japan Patent No. 10-230,393 to precisely position the workpiece in three dimensions.

5. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Maruyama et al. in view of Japan Patent No. 10-230,393 as applied to claim 4 above, and further in view of Karube et al. in WO 94/03302. Karube et al. teach controlling the focal position of the laser beam by using a movable lens (element 20) and a mirror (element 5). It would have been obvious to adapt Maruyama et al. in view of Japan Patent No. 10-230,393 and Karube to provide this to adjust the focal position of the laser beam during processing.

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Hall in U.S. Patent No. 6,757,985 discloses precise positioning of an object along three dimensions. Saino et al. in U.S. Patent No. 6,614,201 discloses end effectors of interest. Nemish in U.S. Patent No. 7,159,633 has a wheel clamping assembly of interest. Bredow et al. in U.S. Patent No. 4,495,398 discloses a machine for cutting flat workpieces.
